Peking Day By Day

BY QUI VIVE
(Staff Correspondence)

Peking, July 12.—The political tension has relaxed considerably during the past three days, due principally to the appointment of Mr. Wang Keh-ming as Acting Minister of Finance. Ever since the beginning of the week when it became definitely known that Mr. Chang Ying-hua would not reconsider his decision and withdraw his oft tendered resignation, speculation has been rife over the choice of his successor for the important post.

Mr. Wang was approached by various factional groups in parliament, and it was said offered the portfolio, "on a silver platter," and thrice he declined the doubtful honor, stating that he was far too busy with affairs of the Bank of China, of which he is President, to assume any further responsibilities. At length, however, his patriotism was appealed to, and last night a formal mandate was issued bestowing the appointment on him. Coincident with the publication of the mandate came the news that he had resigned from the Presidency of the Bank of China, and would devote his entire time to helping solve China's financial difficulties.

Mr. Chang Ting-ao, who was formerly Chief Secretary of the Cabinet, was invited by Mr Wang to act as his assistant, with the title of Vice-Minister of Finance. Mr. Chang has long been active in the present government, and although Chief Secretary of the Cabinet may not sound like an important post it is a well known fact that his influence was considerable, and frequently his advice was sought before any important measure was brought before Parliament.

In addition to being Vice-Minister of Finance, Mr. Chang has also been appointed concurrent Chief of the Salt Administration, and will be in charge of completing the arrangements whereby surplus salt may be exported abroad, under certain restrictions.

In some respects it would appear that various political factions had won a decided victory in the new appointments, since immediately after Mr. Chang Ying-hua resigned his portfolio—claiming that his hands were tied by parliamentary action, in refusing to permit him to export 1,500,000 piculs of salt to Japan, thereby increasing the revenues of the country—parliament immediately made a volt-face, and adopted practically every suggestion made by him for the exportation of the surplus salt, automatically lifting many of the former restrictions. Mr. Chang Ying-hua's financial policy was certainly vindicated, but his successors reap the rewards of his plans.

Mr. Hsiung Ping-chi, Civil Governor of Shantung, arrived in Peking on Tuesday night and immediately set the politicians by the ears. Ordinarily a civil governor is not considered with the amount of seriousness befitting his official position, since usually he is completely under the thumb of the Provincial Tuchun, and his consent to any measure is usually considered a foregone conclusion. Not so with Mr Hsiung, who because of his political sagacity is regarded in an entirely different light, primarily because of his own ability, and secondly because he is the acknowledged mouthpiece of one faction of the Chihli party.

It was largely due to Mr. Hsiung's efforts that Mr. Wang was pursuaded to accept the Ministry of Finance portfolio, so it is said, because he brought assurances that the would have the unqualified support of the Chihli leaders. In addition Mr. Hsiung's activities in Peking have been directed largely to cajoling members of parliament to return to their posts and get down to the business of formulating a constitution. The fact that he did not attempt to force Tsao Kun's election immediately upon parliament is regarded as a good omen, and shows that Tsao Kun has realised that in order to obtain the semblance of legality to his election, parliamentary procedure must be observed—at least outwardly.

Another result of Mr. Hsiung's visit to Peking has been that Dr. Wellington Koo, who has remained in the closest seclusion in his home in the Western Hills, is reported to be returning to Peking today or tomorrow and will enter the political arena. On numerous occasions he has been sought by all the party leaders, and like Wang, has been repeatedly offered a portfolio in the present cabinet. The warring factions have agreed among themselves that with Dr. Koo occupying the seat of honor in the Waichiaopu, great good will result. It is even hinted that Dr. Koo may assume the reins of leadership on next Monday, the same date that Mr. Wang will take up his duties as Finance Minister.

Captain L. D. Kearney

NOTHING would please United States District Attorney Leonard G. Husar more, he says, than to meet Captain Kearney, against whom he has sworn out a warrant charging him with the importation and sale of a large quantity of arms and ammunition. Capt. Kearney, old time sea-dog, and former head of the now defunct Kearney Company, is a short, fat, pudgy man and has two artificial legs. The American authorities have requested the Chinese authorities in Chekiang, where he is believed to be in hiding, to turn him over for prosecution in the American Court.

Miss Wilkinson Wins Car In Evening News Contest

Miss Lillian May Wilkinson, secretary to United States Consul-General Edwin S. Cunningham, won the first prize of a Studebaker Light Six motor car with 233,690,975 votes when the votes were counted in The Evening News subscription contest at the Carlton last night.

Miss Eleanore Cox, Ezra building, won the second prize, a Citroen car, when the count showed her vote was 176,613,230. Miss Kathleen Willder, of Butterfield and Swire, won the third prize.

Other winners of important prizes, in the order named, were:

Dr. C. C. Loh, St. Luke's Hospital, 35,556,700.

K. C. Kong, 51 Kiangse Road, 27,580,000.

Mr. P. Symmons, 29 Scott Road, 20,355,000.

Miss D. Yu, 42 Dixwell Road, 18,478,190.

Miss L. Resmdios, 164 Dixwell Road, 15,025,990.

Among those who acted as judges and counters were United States District Attorney Leonard G. Husar, Mr. E. M. Nery, Mr. William K. Luke, Mr. Harry Frick, Mr. L. L. C. Van Sanden, Mr. Dinny Doyle, Mr. Tom McKenna, Dr. Hans Berents, Miss A. Viola Smith, Mr. W. J. Drummond, Mr. C. S. Loh, Mr. Francis Zia of Shun Pao, and Miss Stella Leitao.

An extremely large crowd, including all the candidates and their relatives and friends, gathered at the Carlton for the final count, which was announced just after midnight. The polls closed at 9 o'clock last night after all the hopeful candidates had propped votes running into the millions into the ballot boxes. As soon as the last votes were in, the committee of counters and judges, headed by Mr. George Toall, who conducted the contest for The Evening News, began their work. The large number of votes made the task of counting a long one and the result was not known until after midnight.

Miss Wilkinson was immediately surrounded by her friends and well wishers, including numerous subscribers who felt they were entitled for at least one ride in the prize bus, and congratulated her on her well won victory. Miss Cox and Miss Willder were also the recipients of congratulations.

Miss Amie Maynard, the dancer who is appearing at the Carlton every night in dancing specialties, danced 'the Japanese dance' last night assisted by four Japanese artists. The dance proved a novel cabaret feature and went over big with the large crowd present for the prize distribution. Miss Effie Burton, singer, and Mr. Adams, pianist, also contributed to the cabaret success of the evening.

ARREST 4 SEAMEN ALLEGED TO HAVE "BEAT UP" GREEK

Unemployed Mariners Stage Battle In Boone Rd., One Badly Hurt

A fellow countryman of Luis Angel Firpo, "the Wild Bull of the Pampas," aided and abetted by three unemployed American seamen, and a Greek named Antosa, staged a free-for-all fight on Boone Road shortly after 3 o'clock last night that ended with the fighter from the Argentine being lodged in the Hongkew station jail, the three Americans incarcerated in the American jail, and the Greek being taken to the General Hospital in a serious condition as a result of the injuries he received.

The battle, according to information secured by Inspector MacKenzie of Hongkew station, had its genesis in a game of cards in the Hanbury Institute, the home of a number of seamen and mariners out of work. The Greek, Antosa, apparently won and after an argument concerning alleged crooked playing, departed from the Institute.

The losers in the card game—Hedlon, who evidently inherits the same love of fighting that caused Firpo to knock Jess Willard for a row of tin pagodas, and Chris Hanson, William Connor and James Filen—are said to have followed him and when they caught him on Boone Road without any visible assistance anywhere near, pounced on him and proceeded to beat him up severely.

Following the fracas the Greek stumbled into the Hongkew station and made a report. He was immediately sent to the General Hospital suffering from numerous lacerations apparently made by boots and shoes as well as fists and teeth, and Hongkew police went out and arrested his four alleged assailants. The three Americans will probably come up for hearing before U. S. Commissioner Lurton today, while the Argentinian will be tried as soon as his status is fixed.

Harding To Seek Capital For Alaska

(BY UNITED PRESS)
(Special To The China Press)

Mantuska, Alaska, July 16.—President Harding today arrived here on his tour of Alaska and devoted himself to a survey of the possibilities of coal production in the nearby district. He told newspapermen and citizens of Mantuska that he was convinced that the chief thing needed to develop Alaska into a great coal producing territory was capital and declared that he would urge that capital be secured for mining operations as soon as he returned to Washington.

U.S. Attorney Asks Chekiang Governor To Turn Kearney Over For Prosecution

Makes Request In Belief Man Wanted Is In Hiding In Hangchow—Hearings Today

Acting in the belief that Capt. L. D. Kearney, former head of The Kearney Company, and an Advisor to the Civil Governor of Chekiang in marine matters, is in hiding somewhere in Chekiang province, United States District Attorney Leonard G. Husar yesterday addressed a letter to Civil Governor Chang Tsai-wang at Hangchow asserting that he has been advised that Kearney is now hiding in Hangchow under Governor Chang's protection and asking that he be turned over to the American authorities for prosecution.

Mr. Husar's letter, which was sent to United States Consul-General Edwin S. Cunningham yesterday afternoon with the request that it be forwarded to Governor Chang through diplomatic channels, read as follows:

July 16, 1923.

Honorable Chang Tsai Wang,
Civil Governor,
Chekiang Province,
Hangchow, China.

Dear Sir:—This office is advised that you have appointed Lawrence D. Kearney one of your advisors, and that he is at present living at Hangchow under your protection.

This is to notify you, that a warrant has been issued by the United States Court for China, for the arrest of said Lawrence D. Kearney, and that he is now a fugitive from justice, and wanted by the United States authorities for the commission of a felony.

Be so kind as to advise me at your earliest convenience, if Kearney is one of your advisors, and if you know of his present whereabouts. If so, kindly detain him, and notify me, so that I can instruct the United States Marshal to effect his arrest. Very respectfully yours.

LEONARD G. HUSAR.
United States District Attorney.

STILL IN HIDING

Capt. Kearney has not been seen since he arrived at Ningpo on a Chekiang gunboat following a trip to Gensan, Korea, where he went to negotiate for the chartering of four Russian refugee ships. He succeeded in chartering the Eldorado, which is now in Chekiang waters, and according to information received by the District Attorney yesterday the arms and ammunition on board the Eldora, including 1,000 rifles and 12 big guns, have been sold by the Russians to Chinese in Chekiang, supposedly the Chekiang provincial government.

Capt. Kearney is wanted by Mr. Husar for prosecution on an alleged arms deal at Woosung last December when munitions valued at $400,000 were transferred from the fourteen vessels under command of Admiral George Stark to Chinese. The warrant for his arrest was followed within two days by the arrest of Mrs. Elizabeth Stein, editor of "Shanghai Sports," and Mal Maloney, star player on the Shanghai baseball team. Mrs. Stein and Maloney are both scheduled to appear for hearing before U. S. Commissioner Lurton at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. It is said, however, that the case will be continued. Mrs. Stein is out on bail, but Maloney is detained in the American jail.

FRENCH GUNBOAT CRASHES INTO 3 SHIPS AT ICHANG

Craonne, Out Of Control, Sweeps Down River Leaving Wrecks In Wake

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Hankow, July 15.—In the midst of the Bastile Day celebration at Ichang the French gunboat Craonne ran amuck and spread havoc to river shipping, according to reports received here tonight.

On Saturday night at 7:40 o'clock the gunboat dragged loose from its anchors, swept down river at a speed of six knots completely out of control, and crashed full tilt into several ships crowding the river.

The gunboat smashed into the Yang Yang Maru, the Ta Hung Maru and the Swanhsien, badly damaging them, and barely missed Jardine Matheson's new vessel, the Pingwo, and Butterfield and Swire's Tungting.

The gunboat, with its side holed in, is still lying across one of the Japanese steamers with which she collided.

No one was injured.

ITALIAN CHAMBER VOTES CONFIDENCE IN MUSSOLINI

Premier Forces Electoral Bill Giving Fascists Supreme Control

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, July 16.—Signor Mussolini today got the Chamber to renew their confidence in him by 303 votes to 140 after an important debate on the Government's new electoral bill, which contains extraordinary provisions. The bill practically abolishes proportional representation. Its carinal principle is one big constituency for the whole kingdom. The party obtaining the most votes at the elections will, whatever its plurality, have a two-thirds majority for purposes of a stable Government and will therefore be awarded 356 seats against 179 for the minority groups.

The measure is eyed suspiciously by the Popular Party and opposed by the Socialists but Signor Mussolini, in a striking speech winding up the debate, declared that he was absolutely intransigent and did not care for compromises. The Fascists had the power in their hands and would keep it. He attacked the Socialist interpretation of liberty.

At the conclusion of his speech, two Socialist leaders embraced the Premier and the President of the Chamber.

EX-EMPEROR FLEES FROM PEKING HOME TO SAVE LIFE

Palace Eunuchs Plotted Murder Of Former Ruler

MORE LOOT?

2,000 Attendants Driven From Forbidden City

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Peking, July 16.—The Boy Emperor, discovering a plot against his life, fled on Sunday from the Forbidden City to his father's old palace near the Drum Tower a mile west of Peking.

The ex-Emperor told the Peking police that the palace eunuchs had plotted to slay him and loot the palace of the priceless relics of the old Manchu days still remaining after the looting incidental to the fire in the palace a few days ago.

Following the Emperor's departure the police proceeded to the Forbidden City and drove out more than one hundred eunuchs who came on Wednesday from Coal Hill Park without official knowledge.

Not knowing where to flee the Emperor went alone to his father's old palace where he still remains guarded by the Republican police. The Boy Emperor is unwilling to return until all the conspirators have been driven out of the Forbidden City.

Hsuan T'ung is the tenth emperor of the Manchu dynasty. His personal name, under which he became known as the Boy Emperor, is P'u I. He is the son of Prince Ch'un and the nephew of the preceding Emperor Kuang Hsu. He was born on February [illegible] and succeeded to the throne on November 14, 1908. He abdicated on February 12, 1912, being allowed, however, to retain the title of Manchu Emperor during his lifetime. His wedding ceremony a few months ago attracted world-wide attention.

Reuter's Account Of Sensation In Forbidden City

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 16.—Sensational events are reported from the Forbidden City in connection with the affairs of the ex-Emperor.

The recent fire was widely believed to be due to incendiarism to cover up the theft or disappearance of priceless treasures and yesterday it was discovered that many valuable ornaments were missing. The ex-Emperor was so incensed at this intelligence that he ordered the arrest and punishment of Eunuchs Chung and Hua Kung. However, these eunuchs were under the protection of two Imperial concubines of the former Emperors, Kuang Hsu and Tung Chih, who refused to permit their dependents to be punished. The ex-Emperor, feeling powerless in his own household, quitted the Imperial Palace, proceeding to his father's palace near the Drum Tower, accompanied by his two wives.

This step caused great agitation as it was feared that the ex-Emperor might leave Peking, which would have been awkward in the present state of Peking politics.

The two dowagers despatched delegates to persuade the ex-Emperor to return but the former monarch declined to do so unless the eunuchs were dismissed.

Early this morning the ex-Emperor issued an order dismissing eunuchs to the number of 2,000. They left the Forbidden City this morning, presenting a curious sight as they scattered about the city.

After ordering the dismissal, the ex-Emperor returned to the Palace.

Many of the eunuchs have nowhere to go. They intend to appeal to Prince Tsai Feng, the ex-Emperor's father. If they are not allowed to return to the Palace they hope that the ex-Emperor will make allowance for their support.

OLD PAOTZUKU CAPTIVES FREED BY SUN MEI-YAO

All the old captives at Lincheng have been released by Sun Mei-yao, erstwhile bandit chief and now brigadier-general of the Chinese army, according to an official letter from General Tseng Shih-chi, co-director of military affairs of Shantung, to the local Street Unions yesterday. The release took place on July 11, the message said, and 27 victims were given liberty.

The letter also gave a complete list of names of the captives, most of whom are young men and boys captured in the vicinity of Lincheng.

POLITICAL POT IN P. I. BOILING OVER, OFFICIAL RESIGNS

Wood-Quezon Scrap Comes To Head In Dispute Over Gambling

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Manila, July 15.—The political pot in the Philippines, which has been boiling and sizzling for several months as a result of the political duel being fought between Governor-General Leonard Wood and Manuel Quezon, President of the Senate, boiled over with a vengeance today, with the result that practically every politician in the Islands is in hot water up to his neck.

Today Secretary of the Interior Jose Laurel resigned following a tilt with the Governor-General concerning the reinstatement of Ray Conley, an American, the chief of the secret service anti-gambling squad. Laurel reinstated Conley on Wood's order despite orders given by Quezon to disregard the Governor-General's order, and then resigned.

The situation resulted from the arrest of Conley, together with two American and two Filipino members of the anti-gambling squad on charges of having accepted bribes from gamblers.

Conley was tried and acquitted on one charge but Filipino officials insisted he be brought to trial on a second charge. The charge was consequently dismissed in the Court of First Instance upon motion of the City Fiscal's office.

During the time he was charged Conley has been suspended and following his acquittal and the announcement of the Filipino prosecutor that the second charge would be withdrawn General Wood ordered him reinstated. It is said that Conley was the victim of a frame-up by gamblers who were after him because of his vigorous campaign against them.

Secretary Laurel reinstated Conley at Wood's order but, fearful of angering Quezon, the political 'boss' of the Islands, immediately resigned his own office. It is also expected that Mayor Fernandez and other officials will resign in an attempt to embarrass the Governor-General.

The Governor-General's reinstatement order was based on a report returned by a board of investigation composed of Col. Lucien R. Sweet, his aide de campe, and Director Jose Gil of the Bureau of Civil Service.

FRANCE WILL STAND PAT IN RUHR DESPITE BRITISH VIEW

Poincare Replies To Baldwin's Speech On Reparations

"RIGHT," HE SAYS

"Willing To Forget And Forgive," But Insists Treaty Must Stand

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 15.—M. Poincare in an important speech at Senlis today, indirectly replying to Mr. Baldwin's statement, declared that France was willing to forget and even to forgive the brutalities of Germany, but she wished to make the Treaty of Versailles respected. France since the armistice had not ceased to make concessions. The chief question was France's security. The pact proposed by Mr. Lloyd George at Cannes in 1922 was practically useless. The replacement of the Reparations Committee by an international financial committee was not in the interests of France.

The Premier dwelt on Germany's failure to fulfil her obligations and declared that the violaters of the treaties rather than those demanding their observance should be asked to give an account of the acts rendered inevitable by their rejection of what was right.

France, M. Poincare continued, did not intend to surrender her pledges in the Ruhr. He had always been a faithful partisan of alliance between Britain and France and nobody would regret more than he if any shadow should darken Anglo-French friendship. The British were as honest as the French and therefore he was assured they would finally agree that the French were right, but, if any breach were made, other propositions must pass through the breach, again raising the question of the peace settlement, destroying the arrangement in Central Europe and probably leading to disaster and chaos.

M. Poincare's speech, which was delivered in connection with the unveiling of a war memorial at Senlis, did not give any hint of likelihood of deflection from his oft-repeated policy, creating the impression that any concession towards Franco-British unity in the forthcoming negotiations must come from Britain.

The Premier declined to agree to the Treaty, four years after its signature, being considered an antediluvian fossil and only fit for an archaeological museum. He denied that the occupation of the Ruhr was responsible for German economic sickness, but, on the contrary, asserted that Germany would in any case have continued to slide down into the abyss which she herself had dug.

M. Poincare adhered to the 1921 schedule of payments, except with regard to the C. Bonds which France would only utilise against Germany in proportion as her creditors demanded the payment of French debts.

The Premier dwelt bitterly on the series of meetings of the Supreme Council, always depriving France of the rights on which they had all previously agreed.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 15.—It is reported from Duesseldorf that great Communist demonstrations against the Extreme Right party are announced for July 29.

A sum of 22,000,000 marks, destined for the payment of railwaymen, has been seized in a private bank where the Reichsbank had concealed it to keep it out of the hands of the French authorities.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 16.—While it is agreed that M. Poincare's speech is in no way promising, the London newspapers are mostly restrained in their comment. They point out that the reassertion of the French policy at the present stage merely emphasises the magnitude of the task Mr. Baldwin has undertaken. The commentators welcome the absence of asperities and note with satisfaction M. Poincare's cordial insistence on the maintenance of the Entente.

The Daily Telegraph challenges the accuracy of the contention that France is upholding the Peace Treaty against Britain and states that, on the contrary, numerous Articles in the reparations clauses do not support M. Poincare's rigid interpretation of the fixation of the indemnity.

The Times likewise denies that Britain has departed from the terms of the Treaty but merely differs from France regarding the method of getting the Treaty observed.

The Daily Chronicle alone takes a hopeless view, and endeavors to show that Britain all along has been very patient in the face of French intransigence. The Journal asks how can the Entente be continued under the circumstances.

The Daily Express frames a constructive suggestion in the shape of adherence to Mr. Bonar Law's policy of leaving France to her own devices and concentrating on the development of Imperial markets.

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Denver, Colo, July 15.—Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson, the first woman to be elected to the Colorado State Senate, and a noted lecturer, writer and suffrage worker, died here yesterday after an extended illness at the age of 45.

Mrs. Robinson was a native of Eastport, Maine and was educated at Wellesley. Following her marriage to Mr. Ewing Robinson, an attorney of Denver, she moved West and made Colorado her home. For six years she was an editorial writer on the Rocky Mountain News, the leading newspaper of Denver, and was also a literary critic. She took an active interest in political and industrial movements and was at one time chairman of the Woman's League, which won municipal ownership of the water plant for Denver. She served as a member of the Colorado state senate from 1913 to 1917, and also served as a member of the Navy Department Commission on Training Activities, Woman's Council for Defense, and the Society for Labor Legislation. She was also the author of several books including "Uncle Tom's Cabin for Children."

MUKDEN DENIES REPORT OF RAID AT KOUPANGTSE

Mukden, July 16.—The local authorities have denied the report published in Peking and Shanghai papers that the Peking-Mukden railway train was held up by bandits at Koupangtse and ransacked on July 2. The report was circulated by the Ming Peng News Agency and was found to be absolutely groundless.

Plenty of troops, gendarmes and volunteers are stationed in the vicinity of Koupangtse and it is a physical impossibility for outlaws to tamper with any of the means of communications in this district. Following the report, the local authorities immediately telegraphed to the railway stations, which all flatly denied that anything of the sort had occured.

G. O. P. WATCHING MINNESOTA FOR TEST OF PARTY

Senators Tour State For Candidate; Result To Indicate Sentiment

(BY UNITED PRESS)
(Special To The China Press)

New York, July 16.—Republicans all over the United States are taking an exceptionally keen interest in the Minnesota elections today as a test of the party's popularity as an indication of just what attitude the American voter holds toward the Harding administration.

Even Republicans in Minnesota concede that Magnus Johnson, the Farmer-Labor candidate, has a good chance of election over Governor Jacob Preuss, the Republican nominee. Johnson and Preuss were the two highest men in the primaries held to select candidates to succeed Senator Knute Nelson.

Just before Senator Nelson's death he gave out a statement in which he said he wanted Governor Preuss to succeed him at Washington.

Senator Hiram Johnson of California, who made a speaking tour of the state in support of the liberal Republican candidate before the primaries, declared that Senator Nelson's statement was merely an attempt to further perpetuate the 'divine right of Senators.' Senator La Follette of Wisconsin also toured the state in support of Johnson as the 'little group of irreconcilables' of which he is the leader bitterly oppose Preuss just as they opposed Nelson, who was one of the leaders of the Old Guard Republicans.

If Johnson wins it will give the Farmer-Labor Party two senators in the United States Senate as Senator Hendrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, was elected Senator from Minnesota in the last election. Senator Shipstead has campaigned vigorously in support of Johnson as his election would mean that the Farmer-Labor Party would be in almost complete control of the state's politics as well as giving them two voices in the Senate.

U. S. Naval Council To Begin Scrapping

(BY UNITED PRESS)
(Special To The China Press)

Washington, July 16.—Secretary of the Navy Denby today ordered the Naval Council to make all arrangements for the carrying out of the United States' warships scrapping program as agreed to at the Washington Conference.

It is believed that such an order is merely a formal declaration as the United States has been prepared to carry out the scrapping program fully for some time and has merely awaited France's formal ratification of the pact before putting the diminished naval program into full effect.

Inexperienced Driver Runs Down Walkers

At an inquest held yesterday by Assessor Whitamore and Magistrate Li over the body of a Chinese named Dong Kyi-men who was knocked down by a motor car on Markham Road Sunday evening a verdict was returned in which it was stated that the deceased met his death largely through the inexperience of the car driver, a Miss Lee. The man was knocked down at a point near Yuhang Road at about 6:30 p.m. and died a short time later at Shantung Road Hospital.

harassing to the Chinese government in the near future, especially since Mr. Yoshizawa, the newly appointed Japanese minister will have no one to whom he may present his credentials unless it be the present cabinet of four.

Mr. Yoshizawa, landed in Dairen yesterday, and in an interview with the correspondent of the Nihon Dempo news agency is reported to have condemned most bitterly the anti-Japanese demonstrations along the Yangtsze and elsewhere. He is quoted as saying, "I shall settle these difficulties (anti-Japanese boycott demonstrations) as soon as I have presented my credentials, and will approach the Peking government immediately and ask for the immediate suppression of these disturbances, as well as giving due warnings to the authorities concerned. If these measures fail I will have to consider the matter in a different light." A statement which might easily be interpreted in the light of a threat.

While on the subject of Japanese protests against the anti-Japanese boycott directed against them in the Yangtsze valley, a foreign resident of Peking who returned from a ten days sojourn in Loyang stated that General Wu Pei-fu received several Japanese delegations from Hankow and other cities recently. It was common gossip in Loyang that these deputations reported to General Wu the seriousness of the situation, culminating in the affair at Changsha, and asked him to use his influence to break the boycott, since General Wu's sphere of influence now extends as far as Chungking. It was stated that at first General Wu demurred over taking any action in the matter, stating that since he was a military man he was unable to exert control over an economic situation, which was outside his jurisdiction. The Japanese spokesman then reminded him that it was Japanese capital which had been responsible in a large measure for the completion of General Wu's Hanying arsenal, and also reminded him that some of the notes were still unpaid. Unless the boycott was stopped, it was stated, the Japanese would proceed with foreclosure proceedings against the arsenal. Gen. Wu is then reported to have replied that he would give the matter of the boycott his close personal attention and try to see what measures could be adopted to further the Japanese interests.

According to Mr. C. W. Bishop, another returned traveller from Loyang, who went thither in the interests of the Smithsonian Institute to locate the ancient city of Loyang just outside the West gate, the bandit activities are becoming greater than ever. When engaged in excavation work for the recovery of archaeological specimens, Mr. Bishop and his fellow workers were surprised by the sound of firing not more than a mile distant. The firing started at nine o'clock in the morning and by two o'clock in the afternoon a pitched battle had developed between the local garrison and a company of bandits. Mr. Bishop's guard of some two score soldiers furnished by General Wu refused to stand to gaff any longer but ordered him to return to safety inside the walls. Safe inside, Mr. Bishop decided to postpone his excavations until a more propitious period, and returned to Peking.

Chinese Fined For Trademark Forgery

A Chinese named Chang Yoh-chang was fined $200 at the Mixed Court yesterday for forgery of an indigo trademark. The complainants were the Wah Chang Trading Corporation, for which firm the accused formerly worked. It was charged that the accused marketed an inferior brand of indigo under the "Double Bird" trademark carried by complainants' goods. The man was forbidden to make any further use of this trademark.

Japanese Chambers Demand Firm Steps To End Boycott

A strong appeal to the government and people to "come to their senses" with regard to the political situation and the anti-Japanese boycott and a demand that the Japanese Government take firm action to bring about the end of the boycott agitation are contained in a proclamation issued yesterday at the Joint Conference of Japanese Chambers of Commerce in China and Japan, held here.

The proclamation, reported by the Eastern News Agency, is as follows:

"The anti-Japanese agitation, which is alleged to have been caused with the object of restoring Port Arthur and Dairen as well as of nullifying the 1915 Treaty concluded between Japan and China through legal proceedings, is constantly growing from bad to worse and has, indeed, come to such a pass that among Chinese officials and civilians there are at present those who not only infringe upon the Sino-Japanese treaty of commerce and ignore the international fidelity but also dare to inflict intolerable insults and oppression upon the Japanese residents in China.

"Japan, with the peace of the Orient in view, has in the past always shown every sympathy to China and has, in the meant me faced the anti-Japanese agitation which has been frequently repeated since the year, 1915, with as much patience and self-respect a possible, maintaining a fair and just attitude throughout. More than this, Japan, with a view to maintaining friendly and neighborly relations with China, has, on various occasions for the last few years, renounced her several vested rights, hoping, thereby, to see that the Government and the people of China will be roused to self-awakening. Take, for instance, the so-called Twenty-One Demands; the Imperial Government of Japan has already withdrawn the greater part of the treaty with the result that the remaining part comprises some clauses the essence of which is nothing but the extension of the lease of Port Arthur and Dairen. Notwithstanding the above fact, there are a section of the Chinese people, both in Government service and private life, who, without any knowledge of the contents of the 1915 treaty, are assiduously and unnecessarily striving to destroy the foundation of the relations of Japan and China and thus to disturb the peace and order in the Orient. This is a matter which the people of Japan can by no means tolerate. For this reason, we, taking this opportunity, hereby warn the Government and the people of China that they should come to their senses as soon as possible, effect the unification and stability of their country and put an end to the chaotic situation as well as to the anti-Japanese agitation, and at the same time demand the Imperial Government of Japan to take firm and drastic actions towards this agitation which is decidedly an act of violence and outrage."

The Joint Conference has also unanimously passed a resolution comprising fifteen items which are to be submitted to the authorities concerned and other quarters for sanction by some executive committees, which it has been decided will be kept secret until sanction is obtained from the authorities.

The last sitting of the Joint Conference was closed yesterday at 5 p.m.

Ichang Officials Issue Mandate Against Boycott

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Ichang, July 10.—Ten days ago the magistrate and the Chief of Police issued the following joint proclamation against the Anti-Japanese boycott:

1. It is a breach of the treaty to interfere with the landing of passengers and cargo which have come by Japanese steamers, and this will be prohibited.

2. It is senseless conduct to search for Japanese goods on the streets, or to tear clothes that have been made from Japanese materials, and these things are hereby prohibited.

3. It is not allowed to be rude to or vilify Japanese persons.

4. There have been processions held on several occasions, but these will not be permitted again. Ichang is a place where both Chinese and foreigners live, and good and bad are all mixed up, and it is feared that rascals might use an opportunity to make trouble, and give rise to international complications, and so this is forbidden.

5. After the trouble between Chinese and Japanese in Hunan, the effects on Ichang were considerable, and strict measures will be taken to prevent disturbances of that nature.

6. To refuse to sell food to Japanese is not only contrary to the treaty, but is a violation of humane feelings.

7. There has been a suggestion by the Navigation Guild that there should be a severance of transportation, and if this is true, it must be amended.

8.—In newspapers and correspondence when speakng of Japanese they should not be referred to as "Dwarfish slaves," "enemies," and all other improper expressions.

9.—People are not allowed to destroy Japanese trade advertisements and notices.

10.—If Japanese persons should call for rickshaws and sampans, as soon as the passenger arrives he should be taken to his destination without any delay and no obstacles should be put in his way.

This seemed very satisfactory, and perhaps a little pressure on these lines might have helped to break the boycott, but it is obvious that this has just been issued to show that the "official" attitude is erfectly correct: for the officials themselves say, "If the people will not buy Japanese goods, how are we to make them?"

So it was not surprising a few days after the proclamation was issued to find a counter-blast from the Society for Assisting Diplomatic Affairs. It is a long statement and has been placarded all over the city. They have the courage to discuss the whole official proclamation, denying that certain things are true, saying that the people must be allowed to please themselves, and asking, if they do not wish to travel on Japanese steamers or to purchase Japanese goods, who is to compel them?

So the boycott remains just as severe as it has been all the time Japanese steamers arrive, stay in harbor for a few days and then depart again, and an ordinary sampan is never seen going alongside, and certainly there is very little cargo being carried in them. The loss of trade must be a very serious matter to Japan, and the Nisshin Kisen Kaisha must be losing heavily for it seems to be their intention to keep up the scheduled sailings of their steamers.

Tokio Holds Big Protest Meeting

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 15.—A mass meeting under the auspices of four associations interested in China to discuss the boycott movement in China was held this afternoon and was attended by 500 persons including Marquis Hachisuka who presided, Baron Shibusawa Mr. Kohuya, the Speaker of the Lower House, and other leading businessmen and Members of the House of Peers and House of Representatives.

A resolution of strong protest against the Chinese boycott was unanimously passed, and a committee of three was appointed to present the resolution to the Government. The resolution expressed fear that continuation of the boycott movement would seriously damage friendly relations between the two countries, and also hope that the Chinese Government would take urgent steps to check the boycott.

EXTORTION CHARGED

Arrested at the instance of the Defense Commissioner, a Chinese shopkeeper was charged at the Mixed Court yesterday with having represented himself to be a chief detective inspector of the Military Governor of Chekiang and of the local Defense Commissioner and with attempting to extort $20,000 from two other Chinese. Mr. Musso appeared for the defense.

No representative of the Defense Commissioner was present for the hearing so the case was remanded two days, the accused to be held in custody.

SECOND JAPANESE GUNBOAT FLOATED FROM YARDS HERE

Consul-General Funatsu Comments On Need For Protection On Yangtsze

Reference to the need of further foreign protection on the Yangtsze was made by Japanese Consul-General T. Funatsu yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the launching of the new Japanese river gunboat Katata at the yards of the Eastern Engineering and Shipbuilding Company, Yangtszepoo.

The Katata, which is a sister ship to the Seta, launched recently by the same company, is the second Japanese war craft to be constructed in China. She is of 388 tons, with a length over all of 184 feet, moulded breadth of 27 feet and normal draft of 3 feet 4 inches. Her full speed is rated at 16 knots and she is equipped with two triple expansion engines of vertical type.

The launching ceremony was conducted by Miss Funatsu, daughter of the Consul-General, after the official christening by Commander Sugisaka, Japanese Naval Agent here, in behalf of the Minister of the Navy. An attendance of in the neighborhood of 1,000 guests, including many prominent members of the Japanese, other foreign and Chinese Communities, were present for the ceremony.

After the launching they proceeded to a huge marquee, where refreshments were served and speeches were made.

In thanking the guests for their attendance, Mr. Ono, the manager of the shipbuilding company, said in part:

"I am very glad that this boat has been launched so smoothly. It must be remembered that in building these gun-boats at this yard, Japan has no other intention than to safeguard the lives and property of Japanese people living in this country where a chaotic and disorderly state of affairs is now prevailing on all sides, thereby endangering Japanese residents and interests in this country. The reason why these boats had to be constructed in this dockyard is not because the yard is a good and perfectly equipped one but because it is the only dockyard in China belonging to Japanese."

Mr. Funatsu, on behalf of "[illegible] guests present, made a brief speech, the gist of which is as follows:

"As I said on the former occasion when the sister ship of this gunboat was launched, we, the people of Japan, are quite reluctant to build these boats, but so long as the present situation in this country continues and in view of the urgent necessity of protecting the lives and property of Japanese nationals residing in various parts of China, we find it absolutely necessary to strengthen our naval force on the Yangtsze.

"I sincerely hope, however, that the time will soon come when the anti-Japanese agitation will be ended and peace and order completely restored so that these boats may become entirely unnecessary, and this is all what Japan and the rest of the Powers eagerly wish for. In conclusion, I want to express my sincere desire that the Eastern Engineering and Shipbuilding Company will in future be placed with orders for the construction of merchant vessels rather than warships as we are always hankering after peace all over the world."

DYER ADVOCATED FOREIGN CONTROL FOR THIS COUNTRY

Author Of China Trade Act Wired President After Lincheng Raid

Foreign management of China's governmental affairs until the formation of a stable administration was advocated in a telegram sent by Congressman L. C. Dyer to President Harding at the time of the Lincheng bandit attack, according to word received here.

Mr. Dyer, who had just returned to the United States from the Far East, was in San Francisco when the raid was made and wired the President on May 8 to the following effect:

"As a result of my two recent visits to China in the last three years to study business conditions with reference to increasing our trade with China and to see what legislation was needed to that end, including the China Trade Act, nineteen twenty-two, of which I am the author, I am convinced from what I learned there as well as by the recent outrages on Americans and citizens of other countries that there is no possibility of conditions being improved there unless the Powers take hold of things.

"I recommend that you call a conference of the Powers to take over the management of Governmental affairs in China until a stable government is established that is able to protect our citizens and other foreigners under Treaty rights. Also that the revenues of that country be collected by a commission selected by the Powers in order that financial obligations of long standing due Americans and other foreigners be taken care of. The Chinese Government at Peking owes to Americans now more than thirty million dollars for railroad supplies and so forth.

"There is no central government in China. The only rule there is by military leaders and brigands. Our duty to the Chinese and to the people of the United States demands that we take decisive action along these lines without a moment's delay."

Bobby Jones Wins Open Golf Title In America After Play-Off Of Tie

By Westa

Robert T. "Bobby" Jones, the Atlanta amateur, won the American open golf championship at the Inwood Country club last Friday, so Reuter informs us today.

Bobby, by that victory, overcame the greatest hoodoo that ever followed an athlete, and proved, as the critics have said for many years, that he is the one of the greatest golfers America ever produced.

Jones won the title, according to the brief Reuter message, after an exciting play-off of a tie, at 296 for the four rounds, with Robert A. "Bob" Cruickshank, formerly a Scottish amateur, and now a professional at the Essex County Country club, of West Orange, New Jersey.

Bobby Jones, the winner, was long known as the "boy wonder" of American golf, due to the fact that he won the Southern amateur championship of the United States when he was 16 years old. That was in 1917. The next year, at Merion, near Philadelphia, he went through to the semi-final in the National Amateur, in the accomplishment of which he defeated Bob Gardner, champion in 1915. It was this showing that brought Jones to the notice of the American golfing public as a coming star; a prediction that was quickly justified, for from that time on Bobby has been looked upon as the leading American amateur, who, except for atrocious luck, would have got to the top of the heap long ago.

HAS HARD LUCK

In 1919, at the Oakmont Golf Club, at Pittsburg, he was runner-up in the National Amateur, and was one up on Davison Herron, the other finalist, when they went to the last hole. Both got beautiful tee shots, and just as Bobby was all set for his brassie second one of the course officials, who was running about wildly trying to keep the crowd back, stopped just behind Jones, less than five feet away, and I cdlowed "Fyre!" into his ear with the megaphone at the very moment that Bobby was at the top of his swing. He flubbed his shot completely, and was so unnerved by the incident that he lost that hole and the next one, and with them the match.

In 1920 and again last year he tied for second in the open championship, his battle with John Black and Gene Sarazen at Skokie last year being one of the American golf classics. He and Black came within one stroke of tying Sarazen, who had played his fourth round in 69—a course record—in one of the most heart breaking finishes ever witnessed in the open championship.

Last year, in the amateur championship at Brookline, it was Bobby's misfortune to be caught in the path of a human cyclone in the person of Jesse Sweetser, virtually an unknown, who in that championship happened to uncork a streak of absolutely uncanny golf. Bobby played his shots perfectly, finishing under par, but Sweetser was going like a house afire that day—as they usually did against Jones—with the result that the young Southerner was eliminated.

WENT TO ENGLAND

Bobby was a member of the American team that took part in the British amateur championship at Hoylake in 1921, in which he was put out in the fourth round.

Jones learned his golf at Atlanta, under the tutoring of Stewart Maiden, who also developed Miss Alexa Sterling, who won the American Woman's championship three years in succesion, and Perry Adair, winner of the Southern Championship and of numerous tournaments. Jones and Adair made frequent exhibition tours for the benefit of the Red Cross and other war charities and it was a dull day when Bobby didn't break a course record or two.

Jones is a husky youth and is one of the longest drivers in the game. He hasn't a weakness on the links, experts say, having overcome an earlier tendency toward "temperament." He is now a student at Harvard, and failed to accompany the team of amateurs that went to England this year because of the fact that he couldn't get away from his studies.

Cruickshank, the runner up, is not so well known in America, although he has flashed across the golfing sky on one or two occasions since he assumed his duties as professional at the Essex County Country Club. He is older than Jones, having been born in 1894, at Grantown-on-Spey, Scotland. He won the Edinburgh Trophy tournament in 1919 and 1920 and was runner-up at a tournament over the Eden course at St. Andrews in 1921. That year he gave up his amateur status and went to America to assume the post of professional at the Essex County Country Club, at West Orange, New Jersey, a suburb of New York. His first year in America he won the New York state open championship, and later, at St. Joseph's, he defeated Jock Hutchinson and Jim Barnes in the play-off of a tie, winning $1,000 for his effort. In that same tournament he won $100 for the best single round, his 69 breaking the course record.

TWO HOLES IN ONE

Cruickshank has two holes-in-one to his credit, the fourth at Turnhouse, Scotland, and the first on the Number One course at the Essex County Country Club. I made that hole myself once in one—yeh, one dozen. The last year I was in New York the newspaper gang held a golfing tournament at the Essex County Club and I had a hard time getting started. The first hole is a one shotter—something over two hundred yards, and I finally got on after driving three or four balls into the woods on one side, and three or four more across the road on the other, finishing with what Doc. Downs calls a snappy twelve.

Cruickshank ranks next to Jock Hutchinson as a mashie niblick player, his mastery over that club being almost as complete as The Hutch's. Bob taks great delight in telling his fellow pros in America that the United States will never be able to produce a golf course like the one at Gleneagles, in his native country, although he admits that the Number One links at Essex County is pretty good. Incidentally he holds the records for both courses at the West Orange lay-out, with a 67 for the Number One and a 68 for the Number Two.

It is unfortunate for the golfers in this part of the world that the Reuter News Editor, in London, doesn't attach a little more importance to these big golfing championships. Today, for instance, he cables us forty words about some polo match in Philadelphia, in which nobody in this part of the world is conceivably interested, and only the bare result of the open golf championship, in which, if precedents were followed, great golfers from all parts of the world participated. We would like to know, for instance, who the first five or ten to finish were, and how Sarazen fared, and what Joe Kirkwood did, and how the British entrants, if there were any, made out.

However, that News Editor is improving. Last year he didn't send us a word. Maybe, in five or ten years, if the capable manager here keeps after him, as he promises, he may be prevailed upon to send us a few details of the big golf tournaments

Dethroned

Gene Sarazen

GENE Sarazen, open golf champion of America last year, failed to repeat at Inwood, New York, last week, the title passing to "Bobby" Jones, the youthful amateur from Atlanta. Jones is now a student at Harvard.

A Treasure-Trove of Humor From His Newly Discovered Newspaper Writings

SOME ANCIENT NEWS NOTES

IT will be remembered that a short while ago, some very ancient documents and records were discovered in an old monastery on Mt. Sinai, where they have been kept filed away by the monks among their dusty archives. Some of them antedate the oldest witings previously known by 100 years. The finders claim that among them are the original Scripture traced in Syriac language and that they differ in many material ways from the translation in use. We have procured some advance sheets from the discoverers and in the few fragments given below our readers will perceive that human nature was pretty much the same 1,000 years ago. It is evident from the palimpsests in our possession that newspapers were not entirely unknown even at that early date. We give some random translations from the original manuscripts:

"Commodore Noah, one of our oldest citizens, predicts a big rain soon. The commodore is building an up-to-date houseboat and expects to spend about six weeks afloat with his family, and his private menagerie."

"Colonel Goliath of Gath, and the new middleweight, Mr. David, are at their old tricks again blowing about the championship. Mr. David has one hand in a sling but says he will be all right when the affair is pulled off. A little more fighting and less talking would please the readers of The Daily Cymbal."

"Ladies, get one of those new fig leaves at the Eden Bazaar before the style is dropped."

"The exposition at Shinar is going to be a grand success. Work on the New Woman's Building called the Tower of Babel has been stopped on account of a misunderstanding. The lady managers have been holding meetings in the Tower for some time."

"See Professor Daniel and his performing lions next Sunday."

"Colonel Job, who has been suffering from quite a siege of boils at his residence on Avenue C, was arrested yesterday for cussing and disturbing the neighborhood. The colonel has generally a very equable temper, but completely lost his balance on finding that Mrs. Job had put a large quantity of starch in his only night robe."

"About 1,500 extra deputy clerks were put on by the county clerk yesterday to assist in getting out summonses for witnesses in the divorce case recently brought by Judge Solomon against the last batch of his wives."

A SURE METHOD

The editor sat in his palatially furnished sanctum bending over a mass of manuscripts, resting his beetling brow upon his hand. It wanted but one hour of the time of going to press and there was that editorial on the Venezuelan question to write. A pale, intellectual youth approached him with a rolled manuscript tied with a pink ribbon.

"It is a little thing," said the youth, "that I dashed off in an idle moment."

The editor unrolled the poem and glanced down the long row of verses. He then drew from his pocket a $20 bill and held it toward the poet. A heavy thud was heard, and at the tinkle of an electric bell the editor's minions entered and the lifeless form of the poet away.

"That's three today," muttered the great editor as he returned the bill to his pocket. "It works better than a gun or a club and the coroner always brings in a verdict of heart failure."

JAMITO WINS LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeats Ireneo Flores For Far East Title At Manila

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Manila, July 15.—Silvino Jamito last night won the Lightweight Championship of the Orient from Ireneo Flores on points at the end of twelve rounds of fast and furious boxing.

It was Jamito's "come-back" after several set-backs following his successful invasion of Australia and promises several good bouts in the near future for the elimination of other would-be champions.

Jamito, a mediocre fighter, made his name in a series of bouts in Australia last year when he set the big island afire with his knockouts. Just at the end of his tour he met Stanley McBride of Chicago, an American who was also invading Australia, and was knocked out.

Jamito returned to the Philippines and has been followed by hard luck ever since. Kid Pelky received a draw with him only a short time ago, and in his last match against the champion, Flores, he lost on points. His victory over the champion last night breaks the string of hard luck that has followed him for almost a year.

PIRIE WINNER OF CUP SHOOT AT THE CLAY PIGEON CLUB

Good Weather Favors Marksman—Third Cup For Mr. Pirie

The Shanghai Clay Pigeon Club held a competition Sunday for a cup presented by "An Anonymous Shooting Member," conditions being thirty Leggetts and thirty Foochow. The cup was won by Mr. W. G. Pirie. Mr. H. H. Read was second and Mr. E. H. Himrod third.

Scores	Killed	Handicap	Total
Pirie	38	7½	45½
Read	40	5	45
Himrod	37	7½	44½
Morriss	37	7½	44½
Beatty	35	9	44
Gibson	38	4	42
Gande	37	5	42
Schwyzer	27	15	42
Tuxford	33	8½	41½
Prince	28	10	38
Bruce	21	9	30

Club sweep competition of 20 Leggetts followed. Winner, Mr. Tuxford, second Mr. Gande, third Mr. Morriss.

Final sweep of 10 Leggetts, 10 Foochows and 5 Double Rises was won by Mr. Morriss, Mr. Himrod second and Mr. Schwyzer third.

The weather was ideal but the sky light proved rather deceptive, fooling the best of the gunners, especially when the Foochow birds were thrown.

This is Mr. Pirie's third cup win this season. He will undoubtedly give a good account of himself in the Championship Shoot in September, as he is coming on very fast.

Practice Shoot At Small Bore Club

The Club met on the Small Bore Ranges on Sunday and put in some very useful practice, the weather conditions being for once ideal. After the practice a Pool shoot was held and the results were as follows:

Mr. R. I. Ito	96
Mr. Rebsamum	96
Mr. H. Tobias	90
Mrs. Denny	90
Mr. W. Hu	89
Mr. L. Mottu	87
Mr. H. Mende	84
Mrs. C. Knight	84
Mr. Denny	81
Mr. Knight	79
Mr. Collaco	78
Mr. Mitchell	52

H. P. S. was 100, and ladies received 5 percent on nett scores made. The tie for first place was shot off, best of four rounds each, and the result was Ito 39, Rabsamum 37.

For the first Club spoon shoot on Sunday next the range is available all day. Competition targets will be on the range and may be signed and fired any time during the day.

Seven Found Guilty In Opium Sales Case

Two months' imprisonment for one man, fines of $100 for two others and $10 fines for four were ordered by Assessor Mead and Magistrate Tsang of the Mixed Court yesterday at the conclusion of an opium case which followed a raid made at 47 Si Gee Ba'. Ka by Mr. M. O. Springfield and other police officers several days ago.

The accused were defended by Mr. L. K. Kentwell, who submitted that his clients were respectable business men who had merely called at the address on business and had nothing to do with opium sales. The Assessor said that he and the Magistrate had visited the place and were satisfied that there had been a good deal more opium on the premises than was found by the police. Six pounds were seized and a number of secret hiding places were located.

1922 OUTSTANDING YEAR IN SILKS, REPORT SHOWS

France Takes 48 Percent; U. S. Now Second Best Customer

China's export of silk is commented on as follows by the commissioner of customs report for 1922, just issued:

"The market for steam filatures opened very firm with limited supplies on hand and prices showing a steady tendency, somewhat curtailing the volume of business done during the first three months, after which the Chinese holders relented a little and made considerable concessions in view of the approaching new season in May. Prices for middling grades show a decline from Tls. 1,350 in January to Tls. 1,100 in April per picul bale. The good demand from Lyons was chiefly responsible for the clearing of the remnants of the previous year's stocks, enabling traders to tackle the problems of the new season with no over-carried supplies on hand.

"Demands from Lyons continued firm, and prices rose steadily until October, when America entered the market in earnest, causing prices to reach unheard of levels in the annals of steam filatures. Middling grade sold at Tls. 1,440 in October and grand extra grade at Tls. 1,600 in early November. Filatures have made excellent profits during the year, especially in cases where large supplies of cocoons had been contracted for early in the season as, owing to a perceptible shortage occuring towards the end of the year, cocoon merchants held out for very high prices.

"Tsatlee re-reels have been in fairly good demand, but cannot be said to have benefited from the 'boom' to the same extent as steam filatures, as supply has always been equal to the demand. Most inquiries for these silks have come from New York, particularly as regards new style re-reels. Prices for tsatlees, middle quality, stood at the beginning of the year at Tls. 1,175 and closed at Tls. 1,030.

"An excellent crop of tussores was reported, but owing to strong demands from New York, market prices were maintained at higher levels than were expected, reaching the figure of Tls. 810 in November. Generally speaking, the year 1922 should rank as an outstanding year in the history of the local silk trade, both as regards prices obtained and profits realised, particularly so in the case of the Chinese producer and dealer.

"The difficulties besetting the path of the foreign exporter have, however, become a matter of greater complexity, seeing that he is, as a rule, obliged to buy ahead in a largely speculative market and has to rely upon his own good fortune as regards exchange settlements.

"But, as regards volume, it is still to be regretted that no greater quantities are going forward, and it can only be hoped that the laudable efforts of the International Committee for the Improvement of Sericulture in China will continue and be crowned with success in time to come. The percentages taken by each country in white and yellow raw silk filatures are shown below:

	1921	1922
America	47	32
France	30	43
British India	15	16

The total quantities of the above silks exported and re-exported abroad from Shanghai amounted to 47,000 bales, an excess over the previous year's figure of 3,000 bales only.

Spot and forward bar silver were each up 3-16d. in London on Saturday. The New York price advanced to 63¼ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 460⅝. Our official Sterling rate here today was raised to 3-0¼, the Gold Dollar rate to 69½, the Yen rate dropped to 70¼ and the other rates changed accordingly.

In the early part of the morning our market was steady but eased off during the day. At the opening business in Sterling was done at 3-0⅝ for July, 3-½ for August and 3-0-7-16 for September. Gold Dollars were done at 70⅝ for July and 70¼ for forward delivery. However there were strong buyers at these rates and the market quickly eased off until at the close when there were no sellers of Sterling at better than 30-7-16 July, 30-5-16 August and 3-0¼ for September.

The best sellers of Gold Dollars were offering 70 for July and 69⅞ for forward. There were no sellers of Yen at better than 69⅝ for July, 69¾ for August and 69⅞ for forward. Banks were quoting 3-1⅛ and 71⅛ for Sterling and Gold Dollar bills for near delivery and 3-1 and 71⅜ for forward.

There were buyers of Franc bills at 1220. China bought silver in London on Saturday and India sold, the market closing steady. New York also quote their market as steady.

HOW MUCH IS YOUR BABY WORTH?

You will surely reply, "He is worth, to me, more than all the money in the world!" Such being the case you will be glad to know of a medicine which will help your baby's teething, enable him to sleep soundly, digest well and develop into a sturdy, healthy child. The name of this already well-known Canadian children's remedy is Baby's Own Tablets. Here is one endorsement out of many received. It comes from an American mother, Mrs. W. M. Stoddart of East Brookfield, Vt., U. S. A., who writes:—"I have never found anything as good as Baby's Own Tablets for regulating the bowels of little children. My baby was sick and restless while cutting his teeth but the Tablets quickly made him all right."

Baby's Own Tablets are an absolutely safe remedy for simple fever, indigestion, constipation, colic, diarrhœa, croup, eczema, also to expel worms. From chemists, or post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

Putting Knowledge To A Test

IN human experience the time comes, sooner or later, when the theoretical rule—the rule of thumb, so called—must be tested and proved by the rule of reason and experience remarks the Christian Science Monitor. Such a time is now coming to many young men and women throughout the world, who having completed their college courses, are preparing to make practical application of the knowledge they have gained. To some it will be a season of pleasing experiences as they find themselves possessed of the understanding which will enable them to unfold and analyse, and then to solve and reconstruct, from patterns and designs carefully drawn, those edifices, expressive of the progress of human thought, which it has been their ambition to erect. To others it will bring disappointment and disillusionment.

There is nothing unique in the position of these adventurers upon the great field of human activity. They are but repeating the experiences of mankind throughout all the ages. The unavoidable tendency seems always to be to adapt ourselves, our beliefs and prejudices, our acquired conceptions of right and wrong, to the beliefs and prejudices and acquired conceptions of others. All of which is unwise and imprudent in its way, because it does little more than make confusion worse confounded.

But the encouraging hope seems justified that humanity is progressing in its search for fundamental truths which are more than mere theories, more satisfying to those who adopt and use them than the rule of thumb too often vainly followed. To millions of thoughtful people throughout the world there has come the realisation that it is possible to supplant mere speculation with satisfying truth proved and demonstrable in human experience. With this understanding there will come, now or at some time in the future, an end to the needless waste, in suffering and discouragement, which attends the age-old effort to adapt and readapt discredited theories and false concepts to a standard of human life which is constantly being elevated and illuminated by a clearer understanding of man's genesis and dominion.

Past this arbor where I drink,
Cloud-rifts blow toward the Great Flower,
And a shower crosses the Middle Ridge.

I can hear the river reaching the sea

O. HENRY - - - BOY AND MAN

How he lived, how he looked, and how he Worked - - -

BY ARTHUR B. MAURICE

FORMER EDITOR OF "THE BOOKMAN," AUTHOR OF "NEW YORK OF THE NOVELISTS, ETC.

We laughed and dozed, then roused and read again
And vowed O. Henry funniest of men.
He always worked a triple-hinged surprise
To end the scene and make one rub his eyes.

VACHEL LINDSAY.

He was christened William Sydney Porter; in spirit he was always O. Henry—even long before the pen name was invented. In considering his life today, almost thirteen years after he passed on, the shadow of the whimsical pseudonym seems to be over every adventure. We think of him as O. Henry when he was the tousled-headed boy playing Indian in his native Greenboro, North Carolina; when he was in school working his "sum" with one hand and making sketches of his teacher, "Miss Lina," with the other; when he was clerk in his uncle's drug store; when he was ranchman in Texas; when he was in Houston as a reporter for the Daily Post; when he was in Austin as occasional clerk in a tobacco store, bookkeeper for a real estate firm, draftsman in the General Land Office, and paying and receiving teller in a bank; when he was in Central America hob-nobbing impartially with local magnate and beach comber—just as we know the O. Henry of the later years, when he was picturing the heart of the "Big City of Razzle-Dazzle," his "City of Too Many Caliphs," his "Little Old Bagdad-on-the-Subway."

Let us touch the high lights of that panoramic career—that forty eight years of life so varied in action, so rich in achievement. He came of good sound stock, his mother's people having settled in North Carolina years before the Revolutionary War. O. Henry's father was Dr. Algernon Sydney Porter, who has been described as at one time "the best known and best beloved physician in Guilford County." O. Henry once summed up his early years with amazing brevity as follows: "I was born and raised in No'th Ca'lina, and at eighteen went west and ran wild on the prairie." Yet, lightly as he dismissed Greensboro in this utterance, he never forgot the debt that he owed to the "somnolent little Southern town."

O Henry's mother died when he was three years old, and, as his father had become absorbed in the fever of invention, the strongest molding influence of his impressionable years was his aunt, Miss Evelina Maria Porter, generally known as "Miss Lina," the teacher of a private school. Under her direction O. Henry acquired his elementary education. That ended when he was fifteen. Then he went to work as a clerk in his uncle's drug store, where he served customers, mixed prescriptions, and, between times, told stories and made caricatures. For five years he bore the drug-store grind with patience and fortitude.

Then came the hour of release, the first embarkation on his ship of adventure, which was to carry him far on the seas of life. In the company of Dr. and Mrs. Hall of Greensboro, O. Henry went to Texas, to the home of one of their sons, Jesse Lee, better known as "Red" Hall, who owned a ranch in La Salle County. A colorful man was "Red" Hall, already a Texas ranger of note, and later to become an army officer in the war with Spain. For some time O. Henry stuck to the ranch, learning to lasso cattle, to shear sheep, to ride and care for a horse, and to acquire the art of cooking. What was more important to posterity, he found there a new world, with a thousand contrasting types.

Science In Public Documents

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

"I was very interested in your article about plans for vacation, and I have sent to Washington for the maps and bulletins you mention. I am continually surprised at the things Uncle Sam has done for us; but why doesn't he let us know about them? Can you tell, me how I can get a list of publications put out by the Government? Once in a while I see a list of bulletins in some magazine, but I have a feeling that there are a lot more down in Washington I would like to know about. I remember one book in particular on weights and measurements (which was offered to people connected with commercial organisations, I presume—nothing the public knew about, anyway), which every housewife in the country ought to have at her disposal.—LEORA SNYDER, Congress Park Ill."

You should write to the Superintendent of Documents at Washington for a general list of publications. You may also obtain information from the directors of the various departmental bureaus dealing with the subjects specially interesting to you. The Agricultural Department covers many things; so, too, the Geological Survey, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Natonaal Research Council, the U. S. Naval Observatory, the Carnegie Institution, the Smithsonian Institution, etc.

Uncle Sam's work for the advancement of science and the diffusion of knowledge is, as you have remarked, surprising. It is one of the best things done in our time anywhere in the world. It ought, in my opinion—and I have no connection with it—to be vastly extended, aided and improved. The books, bulletins, maps, charts, etc., furnished gratis, or at a trifling cost, are of infinitely greater value than the speeches of Congressmen published but never spoken. There may be deadwood here and there, but nearly all the Government publications of a scientific nature that I have seen are of permanent value and authoritative quality.

A better share of the money that the people furnish by taxation, and often, most truly, with the sweat of their brows, and at the price of grinding sacrifice should be devoted to the support and extension of the scientific bureaus of the government.

Measured by true relative values the work of these men and women has not received its due proportionate reward. Neither has it received justice from the directors of public attention. You yourself have furnished a proof of that. You say you came upon the valuable publication about weights and measure that you describe purely by accident in an office where it could not reach the public, or be heard of by the public, although it is full of things that all the people ought to know and would be glad to know.

Perhaps Uncle Sam is not alone to blame for that. He is no Barnum. He may not understand the art of publicity as well as it is understood in private business affairs. But what he does is not done for any individual's advantage, but for the entire intelligent population of the United States. And every one of us ought to help all we can to make his good things known to everybody.

I happen to have before me one of these publications, in two paper-covered volumes, prepared by the Geological Survey, a "World Atlas of Commercial Geology." It seems to me the name of this work tends to limit its circulation. Everybody not directly interested in commerce, and that, too, in a limited and special way, would naturally infer from this title that the book could serve only for the technical information of traders in geological products, such as metals, minerals, oils, coal, etc.

No doubt it is of immense value to them, but it is also of immense interest to all who want to know the facts about the earth's stores of treasures, as far as they have yet been developed. This knowledge is a part of the intellectual food of civilised man, and universal attention should be directed to its existence in convenient, inexpensive, yet typographically excellent form.

The letter press of this collection of charts is filled with scientific information of very great interest to every reader—things about mines and stores of metals, such as gold, silver, platinum, copper, etc.; things about coal, oil, water power and so on; statistical things that perhaps Mr. Edison had been reading when he prepared his questionnaire to screen out young men with unalert brains and inactive memories. The charts are vivid presentations of the relative natural riches of the various lands and continents which enable the reader with a glance instantly to take stock of the potentialities of the nations.

Before this country of ours had set itself free, one of its sons, Benjamin Franklin, made it a center of scientific interest for the world, and in Franklin's spirit it has remained a scientific center ever since.

Some Spanish Books

BY ERNEST BOYD

Don Ramon Perez de Ayala is the most distinguished figure of the younger generation of Spanish writers, who folowed that famous "generation of '98," Azorin, Unamuno, Baroja, Benavente and the rest, whose work is the starting point of every survey of modern Spanish literature. Since 1903, when his first book appeared, shortly after he had come of age, Ayala has published eight volumes of fiction, three of verse, a book of impressions of the war on the Italian front and three collections of political and literary essays. This total is sufficient to indicate that the author is not guilty of the besetting sin of overproduction; he has not aimed at seeing his name each season among the publishers' announcements, and it is this obvious care for his art as a man of letters, this conscientious craftmanship, which have earned for him the high standing and esteem which he enjoys wherever Spanish letters are truly appreciated and understood. In 1920 he was introduced to this country through one of his most charming works, the three "poetic novels"—perhaps an unfortunate subtitle—translated as "Prometheus: The Fall of the House of Limon: Sunday Sunlight" (Dutton), and I understand that the same firm has in preparation the excellent novel entitled "La Pata de la Raposa" ("The Fox's Paw.")

THE POETRY OF PEREZ

Although three small volumes contain all his verse, it is as a poet that students of Spanish literature will find him discussed in the studies which have been written upon him in his own country. His first book was a collection of poems. "La paz del sendero" ("The Peace of the Path"), which had its continuation thirteen years later in "El Sendero innumerable," and its sequel, "El Sendero andante," in 1921. The similarity of these titles must not be taken to imply any definite identity of theme, but rather a common mood implied by the repetition of the word "path," and its connotations of the progress of the soul through experience. The influence of Francis Jammes, the French poet of rustic life, was notificable in that first volume of Ayala, but there ran through his verses something more profound than the ingenuous charm of Jammes. He had all the latter's sensitiveness to natural beauty, his delight in the simple, eternal elements of country life, but with an added vein of philosophic seriousness, which became more marked in the later poems. Here with a rich and graceful vocabulary, a subtle skill in the evocation of a landscape, is combined a deep quality of intellectual emotion. A quotation from Poe, which precedes "La paz del sendero," well describes the intention of all Ayala's poetry: "The struggle to apprehend the supernal lovelinrss." In the course of that struggle he has given us some of the loveliest poems in contemporary literature, poems which, for all the difference of race and language, will inevitably remind the English speaking reader of Shelley.

HIS EARLY NOVELS

During the long interval which elapsed between the publication of his first and second book of poems Ayala gave his measure as a prose writer in four volumes, which may be regarded as all part of a disguised autobiography: "Tinieblas en las cumbres" ("Darkness on the Heights"), "A. M. D. G.," "La pata de la raposa" ("The Fox's Paw") and "Troteras danzaderas" ("Harlots and Dancers"). The first is a curious and chaotic study of what Shaw described as "Mrs. Warren's Profession," and surpasses in irony and observation, though not in artistic excellence, Maupassant's famous variation upon the same theme in "La Maison Tellier." "A. M. D. G.," as those sardonic initials suggest, is a formidable indictment of education and school life in a Jesuit college, and quite impossible to reconcile with Anglo-Saxon standards of literary decorum. The same is true of "Troteras y danzaderas," although it is an amazingly interesting work belonging to an ancient and honorable tradition in the literature of Spain. This interest in strange types, in outlaws and rebels against the social and moral order is one of the fundamental characteristics of Spanish literature, which has endowed the world with the picaresque romance of roguery and adventure. In a form less startling to our own conventions Pio Baroja has followed the impulse to explore the underworld, and his trilogy, now available in English, "The Quest," "Weeds" and "Red Dawn" (Knopf), belongs as surely as those early works of Ayala to the picaresque tradition. "La Pata de la Raposa" is rather different, being an interesting study of a type of psychological paralysis, the destruction of the will by the imagination.

HIS WORK IN ENGLISH

The selection of the volume containing "Prometheus: The Fall of the House of Limon: Sunday Sunlight" to bring Perez de Ayala into English was well advised, for this is the first prose work in which he reveals the plenitude of his power as a novelist. His touch is surer, his craftmanship vastly superior, and his style has the authentic ring of great prose. There is a suave irony in this semi-mythological narrative of modern Spain which is comparable to that of Anatole France, and which makes "Prometheus" one of the finest pieces of prose writing in modern Spanish literature. The two remaining stories are excellent studies of provincial manners, with special reference to the political system which has created the sinister figure of the "cacique," who is to rural Spain what the "boss" is to American cities. The book deserves more attention than it has yet received in English. It has shared the neglect which seems to be the fate of so much that Spain has given us of real distinction in recent years.

Ayala's next novel appeared in 1921, "Belarmino y Apolonio," a mature work of great originality, but one that defies translation, unless some translator of creative genius be persuaded to undertake it. It is hardly a novel in the proper sense of the word, but a fantasia upon the theme of the final poem, "Philosophy," in "El sendero andante." Belarmino and Apolonio are two cobblers who incarnate in their grotesque persons two opposite human types. Belarmino is the philosopher in search of a word that will sum up all knowledge. Apolonio is a poet and a dramatist, whose dream is of glory and heroic action. The one represents the desire for knowledge, the other for expression. At the same time they are not mere abstractions, but fascinating human types, diverting eccentrics. The romantic element is supplied by the love of Apolonio's son for the adopted daughter of Belarmino. The pair are the rivals of Flaubert's Bouvard and Pecuchet Belarmino sees the universe in terms of the dictionary, his rival visualises life in terms of the theater. Ayala kindly supplies some pages from Belarmino's peculiar dictionary, for by a strange association of ideas words take on a meaning peculiar to himself and give a special savor to his numerous dissertations. For example "to kiss" means "to envy, from the kiss of Judas"; "illiterate" means "impartial, without intellectual prejudices."

A NEW NOVEL

Although the novel which Ayala has just published appears in two volumes under separate titles, "Luna de Miel, Luna de Hiel" and "Los Trabajos de Urbano y Simona" (Madrid: Mundo Latino; New York: Zabala y Maurin), it is one story in two parts. He has taken a classical theme, a theme which served Longus for the pastoral poem of Daphnis and Chloe and Moliere for the comedy of "L'ecole des femmes." Urbano is a youth as completely dominated by his mother and sheltered from the world in a monstrous "innocence" as ever Agnes was by Moliere's Arnolphe. He is married by her to Simona, whose ignorance of the facts of life and nature is as perfect as his own. The brief honeymoon shows the young man that he is not prepared for his new estate, he runs away, is persuaded to return to Simona, and the young couple are on the point of learning to love each other when the mother again thwarts nature by separating them because a double bankruptcy has deprived them of the means upon which the marriage was based.

The second volume resumes the story at this point and develops the author's philosophy of nature versus convention. The "labors of Urbano and Simona" are directed toward overcoming the handicaps imposed upon them by a perverted and artificial education, and in the end they are brought together by natural instinct far more effectively than by the means employed by the formidable Doña Micaela, whose end is a terrible retribution for her denial of the instincts and impulses of life. The secondary figures in this curious tragicomedy are all types of repression, of stunted psychological development: Don Pablo, the complete specimen of Doña Micaela's ideal, a mature man with a boy's mind; Don Castulo, who is saved from an identical fate only by the healthy normality of Conchona, the country servant, who diverts Don Castulo's literary romanticisations of love and life into the channel of marriage.

The entire narrative is informed by a great skill of writing, an easy style, with just the right note of irony, and a pleasant vein of genuine comedy with a dash of what is usually called Gallic salt. The scene in which the learned theologian, Don Hermogenes Palomo, is consulted on the question of divorce is as amusing as Moliere's treatment of the same problem, though stated in different terms, when Arnolphe tries to find out if Agnes has really outwitted him. Ramon Perez de Ayala has given us once more a work of classical distinction.

Children Cry for Fletcher's
CASTORIA
Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.
It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.
Save the Babies.
Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in ivilised countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinct. and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

Dame Adelaide Anderson, Soon To Pay Visit Here, Writes Interesting Book

"Women in the Factory," by Dame Adelaide Anderson, D.B.E., M.A., (John Murray)

In view of the approaching visit to China of Dame Adelaide Anderson, late His Majesty's Chief Lady Inspector of Factories in England, it is interesting that her recently published book has lately reached this country, since it is not only good reading in itself but also gives a vivid idea of her far-reaching experience and knowledge of industrial conditions, even though she barely speaks of herself. It is a record of 28 years' service, and has as its sub-title "An Administrative Adventure," and holds great interest for the general reader from two different aspects. It may be regarded as an account of the marvellous work of a small group of women, or as a very human history of the change in industrial conditions in England of the last thirty years.

Taking the latter aspect first, it will most probably be a surprise to the uninitiated public to learn of the revolution in the industrial position of women which has come about since 1893, that is, since the first women factory inspectors were appointed. Thirty years ago women workers were totally unorganised, their value and welfare were barely considered. Wages paid to them in those days are now barely credible—in industries moreover that had not by any means the reputation of being sweated. In very few factories or workshops was any consideration paid to their safety or their health, let alone their comfort. Wages were so low that there were innumerable cases of women or young girls working for three, or even more, hours at home after a ten hour day in a factory, in order to earn enough to live. Workrooms were frequently ill ventilated, badly drained, uncleanly of otherwise defective. A sanitary accommodition was either "unsuitable, insanitary, not separate for the sexes, or totally lacking." There was no protection for women working in "dusty" or other unhealthy processes; there was insufficient regulation for women before and after childbirth, and in very many industries the method of employment of "young persons" needed radical revision.

There seem to be three main causes for the great improvement in the position of women workers, as chronicled by Miss Anderson. (1) The indefatigable work of the small group of women inspectors leading to ever more and more detailed legislation on such points as those mentioned above. (2) The general spirit of willingness to co-operate on the part of employers and employed. Perhaps the most noticeable characteristic of the whole book is the note of sturdy faith in human nature of all kinds, and one feels that if anyone who has lived as close to the seamy side of a very urgent problem as has Dame Adelaide can afford to be an optimist about humanity, then we may all take heart. (3) The war: the years when women were in the majority proved their worth in every branch of skilled and unskilled labor, so that now they "are surely summoned to take their full share in the building up of a better industrial life for the people, as fellow producers with men, but with their 'other' point of view as guardians of the home."

The second aspect of the book is that of a record of the devoted services of a few women; even during the war the number of women inspectors did not exceed thirty. As one reads of the inspectors' manifold duties—pleading their own cases in court, making midnight raids on suspected overtime workshops, driving for hours late at night or long before dawn, in pouring rain in order not to miss an appointment, visiting 'cases' at home, and always, endlessly making reports: all this in addition to the ordinary routine of factory inspection, which alone, calls for more qualities of mind than are possessed by the person of mere good intentions as one reads, one is impressed with the fervent spirit of service to humanity that burns in these women, with their keen sense of, and complete devotion to, a vision of a better industrial order. One is impressed with the humanness of their work in its aims and performance and results.
